

MURDER DESCRIBED BY THE DEFENDANT

MARTIN THORN TELLS OF THE KILLING OF GULDENSUPPE.

Mrs. Nack the Guilty One—His Only Share in the Deed Was Helping the Woman to Dispose of the Body of the Murdered Man—Case May Go to the Jury Tonight.

New York, Nov. 30.—Martin Thorn went to the witness chair Monday and without a tremor told his story of the murder of William Guldensuppe. Mrs. Nack again refused to testify in her own behalf. It is thought that by tonight the case will be with the jury. Opinions, both lay and legal, differ very materially as to the probable result. Many look for conviction, but a greater number anticipate a disagreement.

From the moment Thorn was led to the witness chair until he left it some hours later the prisoner conducted himself in a cool and impressive manner. He deliberately accused Mrs. Nack of having shot Guldensuppe and declared that when he (Thorn) reached the Woodside cottage, between 11 and 12 o'clock on Friday, June 25, the woman met him at the door and told him that Guldensuppe was lying dead upstairs and that she had shot and killed him. This, said Thorn, was the first intimation he had of the purpose for which Mrs. Nack had rented the Woodside cottage. Up to that moment he had understood she was going to start a baby farm there and that he was to live with her and share the profits.

He said that after Mrs. Nack begged him to help her to get rid of the body he accompanied her to the room on the second floor, where he found Guldensuppe's body lying on its side, with a bullet wound in the right side of the head. Mrs. Nack told him that she had carried the revolver in her hand covered with a handkerchief, and that as Guldensuppe was looking into a closet she shot him.

Thorn then said he went out and bought two pounds of plaster of paris, at Mrs. Nack's direction, and returned with it shortly afterward. This was about noon. When he got back to where the body lay Mrs. Nack was still there, and he helped her undress the corpse. Between them they carried the body to the bath tub, and Mrs. Nack cut it into five pieces. She first cut the head from the trunk with the aid of a knife and saw. Then she divided the trunk and boasted of her knowledge of anatomy while so doing. Then she severed the legs, using the knife and saw. The knife looked like a butcher's knife. It was not a stiletto or a dirk knife.

Mrs. Nack, according to the witness, remained there all that day until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when she went out to get some fresh air, as it was very warm and sultry in the house. About 5 o'clock she returned. She made up a bundle containing the murdered man's clothes and the pistol, saw and knife for herself to carry and gave Thorn the head in a parcel. They left the house and took a trolley car to the 92d street ferry to New York. From the rear of the boat he dropped the head into East river, and when they reached New York she went to her room in 9th avenue and burned the clothes in a cook stove. The next day the rest of the body was made up into three parcels and disposed of in the manner which Mrs. Nack recited at the last trial.

Thorn said the reason he told Gotha that Mrs. Nack committed the murder was because he thought he could trust him as a friend. This finished the cross-examination.

Thorn said he did not wish Mrs. Nack to die; he wanted to see her free. "You were willing to die yourself and save the woman?" asked Mr. Weller.

"Yes, sir," said the prisoner. "I loved her and was willing to die for her."

ALLISON MAKES A FORECAST.

Iowa Senator Tells What He Thinks the Coming Congress Will Do.

Dubuque, Iowa, Nov. 30.—Senator Allison left here for Washington today. In an interview he said no revenue legislation would be passed, at least until late in the session, as it could not be foretold accurately until then what legislation, if any, would be necessary to bring the revenues for the next fiscal year up to the disbursements. This year's estimates had failed because the extent of importations during the pendency of the Dingley bill had not been fully realized. He believes congress will not consent to the retirement of the greenback, but may provide that it shall be reissued only in exchange for gold. This he would consider unobjectionable. He believes the senate will ratify the Hawaiian treaty by a bare two-thirds majority.

Fruit Crops Seen Safe.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Nov. 30.—The first cold weather here brought the mercury down to only 10 above zero. The late fall has left all fruits in the best of condition, and the prospect for next year is encouraging.

Two Jurors Selected.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—Luetgert's second trial is under way before Judge Gary, and though but sixteen veniremen were called into the box yesterday, two jurors have been practically selected.

SOLUTION BY McKINLEY.

Scheme of the President to Stop the "Endless Chain."

Washington, Nov. 30.—In his message to be sent to congress next Monday President McKinley will make one positive recommendation in regard to the currency. That recommendation will be an advocacy of the plan which he has originated providing for the breaking of the endless chain and the draining of the treasury's gold by means so simple that it appears to correct the evil, and, at the same time, does not involve a contraction of the currency, which has been so much feared.

The president's plan, stated in its simplest form, is this:

Whenever, for export or any other reason, a person desires gold he can obtain the same from the treasury on the surrender of an equal amount of greenbacks.

Whenever, for any reason, such as the movement of crops or the demands of trade, currency is required, it can be obtained from the treasury on the surrender of gold.

In other words, instead of the present method, by which a person paying into the treasury a million dollars in greenbacks receives in return a million in gold, and those greenbacks are immediately reissued and made use of by some one else to obtain another million of the yellow metal from the government, the greenbacks, under the president's plan, when exchanged for gold, will be held practically locked up until somebody, for business reasons, is more anxious for currency than for gold, and is willing to surrender gold for the paper.

FIGHT FOR JOLIET SCALE.

Miners of the LaSalle, Jones, Rockwell and Oglesby Shafts Go Out.

LaSalle, Ill., Nov. 30.—All the miners of the LaSalle, Jones, Rockwell and Oglesby shafts went out at noon Monday. The miners held a meeting and decided to go out and to stay out until the operators agreed to pay the Joliet scale. A committee was sent to Springfield to find out what the miners were receiving there.

The strike is further complicated by the company men refusing to accept $1.75 a day, as the Joliet scale calls for $1.85 a day for drivers. The operators here positively refuse to pay either miners or company men more. As a result they will remain out all winter unless the men can be induced to accept. The company men said they would not accept $1.75 a day and even if the miners should decide to return they would not be able to dig coal, because there would be no cars at hand.

Protest Against Waste.

Alexandria, Ind., Nov. 30.—Nine Indiana mayors, representing cities in and out of the natural gas belt of the state, met Monday to take further and more forcible action to suppress the daily waste of this most useful fluid. The general opinion throughout the gas belt is that the present laws governing the natural gas supply and consumption are inadequate and that new ones must be enacted. With that end in view it was voted at the meeting that the mayors of the gas belt call mass meetings in their respective cities for Wednesday night, Dec. 1, for the purpose of appointing three delegates from each city in the belt to consult with the governor at a future date as to the wisdom, in his judgment, of calling a special session of the legislature.

Madrid, Nov. 30.—It is stated here that Don Carlos, the pretender, has summoned to Venice, where he is now residing, the Marquis Cerralbe, his representative in Spain, with a view of promoting a fresh agitation on the subject of the autonomy decree. The Marquis Cerralbe recently tried to negotiate a loan in the Carlist interest, but the attempt was a failure.

MONROE'S DOCTRINE IS IN PLAY AGAIN

INTERNATIONAL COMPLICATIONS OVER HAYTI

Germany Must Be Careful—United States Cruiser Marblehead Is Ordered to Haytian Waters to Watch the Movements of the Kaiser's Warships.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Although the administration feels some hesitation in recognizing that the trouble between Germany and Hayti over the Lueders case is serious, it has determined to send the cruiser Marblehead to Haytian waters to watch over American interests. She will remain at Port au Prince if any attempt is made to carry out the threatening policy of the German government.

There have been reports from Berlin that a German cruiser will visit Port au Prince soon. The navy department has ascertained that two school ships of the German navy will be in the West Indies this winter and will touch at Charleston in February. This was reported by the German embassy here before the Lueders dispute arose. Since then the department has been informed that another German school ship will visit the West Indies this winter.

There has been nothing official received to confirm the report that formidable German vessels are to be sent to Hayti to enforce reparation for the treatment of Lueders. It has been customary for Germany to send two school ships to the West Indies every winter. While these embryo men-of-war could inflict considerable damage on Port au Prince, the administration seems satisfied that their mission is entirely peaceable.

Still the presence of the Marblehead, small as she is, will make the United States have a feeling of greater security against trouble between the great European power and her antagonist of the West Indies.

The Marblehead will not touch at any Cuban port. It is the policy of this government not to send warships to the vicinity of the perturbed island, for fear of exciting suspicion that the United States contemplates some act detrimental to the interest of Spain.

Not a line about the Lueders affair has been sent by the state department to Ambassador White. He has not even been told to keep the department informed of developments in the case at Berlin. An explicit denial is given by the department officials to the Berlin dispatch published that Mr. White has been directed to make representations on the subject.

J. E. Leger, Haytian minister to the United States, who resides in New York, came over to Washington Monday to inform the State Department of the status of the Lueders case from the side of his government. His statements indicate that Hayti does not propose to back down if Germany resorts to force. He admits that Hayti can do little to protect her ports, but says the Haytian army will give Emperor William's sailors and marines a lively reception if they land.

Minister Leger says that his country considers its honor involved in the Lueders case. He thinks that the Monroe doctrine applies and expects that the people of the United States will not approve of the crushing of Hayti by a powerful European government.

TWO DIE IN ESCANABA FIRE.

Escanaba, Mich., Nov. 30.—Fire which started in the steamer Nahant, loading ore at No. 4 dock, got such a firm headway that it communicated to the dock. At midnight two docks were on fire, and tremendous efforts were being made to save the other two which comprise the group.

The steamer is a total loss. Two of its crew, the names of whom cannot be learned, are known to have been burned to death. Several other members of the crew are badly burned, but will recover. It is impossible to estimate the loss. It will be not less than $300,000 and perhaps much larger.

DRIVEN ON SHORE BY A HIGH WIND

FRIGHTFUL HURRICANE RAVAGES BRITAIN'S COAST.

Loss of Life Very Heavy—Bodies of Twenty-Five Seamen Washed Ashore Near Yarmouth—Damage to Property Is Enormous—Woolwich Arsenal Inundated.

London, Nov. 30.—The latest reports from various points along the coast show that the gale which swept English waters Sunday was one of the worst storms of recent years. In many places it was almost a hurricane in its violence, and the long list of disasters includes a large loss of life, the wrecking of many large vessels and the loss of scores, if not hundreds, of smaller craft, with serious damage to property ashore at many important towns. Scarcely a town on the coast has escaped without more or less injury, falling walls and flying debris adding to the loss of life.

Twenty-five bodies have been washed ashore near Yarmouth. The brig Rugby and five other ships were wrecked off Hemsby. A large steam collier dashed upon Flamborough head, the famous promontory on the North Sea coast, floated off and then foundered with all on board. A steamer not yet identified was wrecked on Bridlington sands with her entire company.

Sunday night the steamer Rose of Davon, Capt. Davis, went on the rocks near Redruth, Cornwall, where she pounded all night long, her crew of twelve perishing. In the morning the bodies of the captain and five seamen were washed ashore.

The district near the mouth of the Thames has suffered severely, several townships being partly submerged. The Sheerness dock-yard and the Woolwich arsenal were inundated. At Scarborough, the fashionable watering place, the seawall was washed away. At Yarmouth, Lowestoft and other coastal towns of Norfolk, the esplanades were flooded.

At Liverpool the Mersey flooded its bank on the Chester side and deluged the shore district for miles. Similar disasters occurred at Holyhead, where a number of valuable yachts were sunk at their moorings. Scarcely a vestige remains in sight of the wreck of Lord Nelson's old flagship, the Foudroyant, long fast in the sands off Blackpool. There is a great deal of wreckage near the Goodwin sands.

Immense damage has been done to the government property at the Sheerness dock-yard and the Woolwich arsenal. Seven thousand troops were hurriedly ordered out to remove thousands of pounds' worth of ammunition and stores from the wharves and sheds to places of safety.

TO SAVE NATURAL GAS.

Judge McClure Hands Down a Most Important Decision.

Anderson, Ind., Nov. 30.—Judge McClure Monday handed down the most important natural gas decision yet rendered in Indiana. It will probably stop the movement for an extra session of the legislature to enact new and more complete natural gas laws.

The case cited was the State vs. the Ohio Oil Company, a branch of the Standard Oil Company. It is one of the operators in the Alexandria field, now attracting so much attention. The suit was to collect a fine of $20 a day per well for gas waste. Judge McClure holds the fines collectable. This means the closing of every well in which gas comes up with the oil, as none will produce sufficient to square the heavy fine. Some of the twenty-six wells in Alexandria field have been running since June, and at $20 a day have fines amounting to $4,000 at least.

Great Lottery Overthrown.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Justice Harlan handed down the opinion of the United States Supreme court Monday in the case of J. J. Pekin, Nov. 30.—Inquiries made in Chinese official circles confirm the statements contained in dispatches from Shanghai giving the substance of the demands made by Baron von Heyking, the German minister to China, as a result of the murder recently of German missionaries and the destruction of German mission property. China will refuse the demands of Germany, but will express willingness to make ample reparation for the murder of the missionaries and for the damage done to the mission property. Russia, it is understood, is not yet helping China, but the latter country has decided not to provoke hostilities and to trust to diplomacy for a settlement of the difficulties which have arisen in connection with the mission outrages.

Gov. Bradley is determined to protect the turnpike property, and it is said he may lead some of the militia in person.

A BRAVE SOUTH CLINTON MAN

Elmer Samson Showed Coolness When Hand Was Hurt—Other News.

South Clinton, Nov. 30.—Elmer Samson, who had his left hand taken off as a result of being caught in the rollers of a corn husker, last week, is getting along well. At the time of the accident he was feeding the machine, to relieve one of the regular feeders. A few minutes before the accident this man returned and offered to resume his position, but Samson told him he would find a little while longer. When his hand was caught and he found he was unable to pull it out from the grip of the rapidly revolving rollers, he coolly reached over with the hand that was free and reversed the lever that stopped the rollers. His hand was held so tightly that it was necessary to take the machine apart to get it out. In his misfortune Samson has the sympathy of all, being a young man of steady habits, and well liked. He is a son of L. Samson, who carried the mail between Clinton and Birgen, is about 23 years old and since he was large enough to do so has worked out steadily, most of the time being employed on Duxstad's farm. A subscription has been started to secure for him an artificial hand and our citizens are responding in a liberal manner. By the recent death of Tosten Nelson, another of the few remaining early settlers of this community was removed. Mr. Nelson settled here in '39 coming directly from Norway. He was 91 years and 5 months old at the time of his death. We still have two of our old settlers left, who are over 90 years of age, Mrs. Erick Gilbertson being 93 and O. C. Newhouse 91. Both of these are still active and bid fair to live for some time yet. Our young people have started a literary society that meets every Wednesday evening, holding their meetings alternately in the Anderson and Carpenter school houses. H. O. Nateska is the president and Miss Mattie Duxstad the secretary. The programs consist of debates, essays, music and reading of the society's newspaper, the "Bomb," the latter being a star attraction. H. E. Williams who has been confined to the house by sickness for some time is not improving very rapidly, a fact which his friends are sorry to note. Our town board has nearly completed the erection of a new bridge over Gale's Creek near Lawson's Hill. The recent inclemency of the weather has much retarded the progress of the work. H. B. Duxstad returned on Tuesday of last week from an extended business trip to Chicago. Oliver Newhouse is teaching school about five miles west from Beloit. Services were held in the east church on Thanksgiving day. Henry Anderson lost a valuable horse last Sunday morning, the result of blood poison setting in, after being kicked by another person. The dancing party given by the S. C. social club at Chessman's opera house on Tuesday evening of last week was a pronounced success from every point of view. There appears to be a unanimity of opinion on the part of those who were present that similar exertions in the future by the club will be highly gratifying.

A RELIC OF THE PAST.

NO LONGER NECESSARY.

A Medical Discovery Which Will Change the Treatment of All Such Diseases.

It has long been thought not only by some physicians but by the people in general that the common, painful and exceedingly annoying trouble, piles, was practically incurable by any other means than a surgical operation, and this belief has been the cause of years of needless suffering, because of the natural dread of surgical operations.

There are many salves, ointments and similar remedies on the market which afford some relief in cases of piles, but the Pyramid Pile Cure is the only preparation so far introduced that can be reliably depended upon to cure to stay cured, every form of itching, bleeding or protruding piles.

Mrs. M. C. Hinkley of 601 Mississippi St., Indianapolis, was told by her physicians that nothing but a surgical operation costing between seven and eight hundred dollars could cure her as she had suffered for 15 years; yet even in such a case as hers the Pyramid Pile Cure accomplished a complete cure. She says: "I knew an operation would be death to me and tried the Pyramid with very little hope and it is not to be wondered at that I am so enthusiastic in its praise."

Mr. D. E. Reed of South Lyons, Mich., says I would not take $500 and be placed back where I was before I used the Pyramid Pile Cure. I suffered for years and it is now eighteen months since I used it and not the slightest trace of the trouble has returned.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by nearly all druggists at 50 cents and $1 per package and as it contains no opium, cocaine or other poisonous drug can be used with perfect safety.

No one need suffer from piles in any form who will give this excellent remedy a trial. Send for book on cause and cure of piles, sent free by addressing Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich. (formerly Albion, Mich.)

Wheat Yield of Australasia.

Sydney, N. S. W., Nov. 30.—An official estimate places the wheat yield of New South Wales at 11,000,000 bu. and it is anticipated that the exportable surplus of wheat from Australasia will be 5,000,000 bu.

NEW BANK IS OPEN AT TOBACCO TOWN

INJUNCTION PROCEEDINGS WERE IN VAIN.

Edgerton People Hasten to Open Accounts With "The Tobacco Exchange," and a Good Days Business Was Done—The Status of the Present Litigation.

Edgerton, Nov. 30.—[Special]—The Tobacco Exchange Bank opened for business at Edgerton yesterday, and did a big business.

The injunction intended to stop the sale of the property of the Bank of Edgerton to the Tobacco Exchange Bank, failed to do so as the deal had been made several days before the injunction was gotten out.

When the bank closed at the end of business yesterday, money "was piled up like haycock on the counters."

Edgerton, Wis., Nov. 30.—Litigation growing out of the failure of the Bank of Edgerton is multiplying. Late Saturday night papers were served on the officers and stockholders in the defunct bank in the interests of several large depositors who desire to change the method of procedure in the court in winding up the affairs of the bank.

The papers also contained an injunctive order restraining Receiver L. H. Towne from continuing his duties until further order of the circuit court of Rock county.

Names of Petitioners.

The petitioners in this action are: C. M. Gager, John Bullis, Rufus Blingham, O. O. Tellefson, William McIntosh, Neils Nelson, T. J. Atwood, Freyer & Eisenlohr, G. W. H. Hall, John Bates, Charles Bates, Ann Hall, William Bussey, William T. Pomeroy, Milford Pelton, Theodore Tellefson, J. H. Carpenter, O. B. Carpenter, D. I. Willson, B. C. Willson and James Tointon by their attorneys.

The complaint is long and alleges negligence on the part of the directors in permitting fraud and misconduct on the part of its cashier as well as their knowledge of the insolvency of its doors; also fraud in the closing of its books; also fraud in the payment of its dividends, unearned and in attesting to the correctness of the financial statements required by the statutes.

The Relief Desired.

The relief prayed for in the complaint is as follows: "First. That the plaintiffs may be made parties plaintiff in this action and that the amounts due to each of them by said defendant corporation may be determined and adjudged in this action."

"Second. That said John P. Towne, B. C. Carter, O. L. Burnham, Henry Marsden, W. W. Williams, J. C. Hurd, J. J. Pearson and Thomas Thronson, directors, and the stockholders of said defendant corporation may be parties defendant in this action. That the complaint in this action be amended to set forth all the allegations of the new action. That a final judgment may be rendered and an equitable distribution of the property of the bank to all the creditors. And if such property is insufficient to discharge the debts of the bank, the court to compel the stockholders to pay the amount due and unpaid on their stock with dividends and accumulated interest on the same and their statutory liability on the same. That the said directors and officers be adjudged to pay all the debts of said bank now existing owing to the creditors thereof."

Ask Right to Sue.

"Third. Or in default of granting the relief as prayed for, the court make an order authorizing said petitioners to commence an action for themselves and all other creditors against the bank its officers, directors and stockholders for the purpose of winding up the affairs of said bank, establishing the liability of its officers, directors and stockholders and pending said action all proceedings in the action be stayed."

"Fourth. That this court make an order permitting and authorizing some competent person to be selected by said petitioners to examine the books of said defunct bank and all its papers, records, documents, etc., pertaining to the management, conduct and business of said bank from its organization down to the present time."

A hearing on the petition and injunction will be held before Judge Bennett at Janesville at 10 o'clock, Saturday, December 4.

The receiver had arranged to apply to the court for an order to distribute a dividend about December 15 at which time something like $75,000 would be available, but the bringing of so many suits only delays matters and keeps the depositors out of use of their money that much longer.

Sir Knights Attention!

All Sir Knights and their ladies, of Janesville Commandery No. 2, are invited to attend the memorial service in honor of the late Sir Knight and Prelate, Fayette Royce, of Beoit Commandery No. 6, at their asylum, Tuesday evening, November 30. The Sir Knights will appear in uniform; white gloves, no swords. T. W. GOLDIN, Em. Com.

KIDNEY TROUBLES

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,

Also Backache.

I cannot speak too highly of Mrs. Pinkham's Medicine, for it has done so much for me. I have been a great sufferer from Kidney trouble, pains in muscles, joints, back and shoulders; feet would swell. I also had womb troubles and leucorrhoea. After using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and Blood Purifier and Liver Pills, I felt like a new woman. My kidneys are now in perfect condition, and all my other troubles are cured.—Mrs. MAGGIE POTTS, 324 Kauffman St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Backache.

My system was entirely run down, and I suffered with terrible backache in the small of my back and could hardly stand upright. I was more tired in the morning than on retiring at night. I had no appetite. Since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I have gained fifteen pounds, and I look better than I ever looked before. I shall recommend it to all my friends, as it certainly is a wonderful medicine.—Mrs. E. F. MORROW, 1043 Hopkins St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Kidney Trouble.

Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I had suffered many years with kidney trouble. The pains in my back and shoulders were terrible. My menstruation became irregular, and I was troubled with leucorrhoea. I was growing very weak. I had been to many physicians but received no benefit. I began the use of Mrs. Pinkham's medicine, and the first bottle relieved the pain in my back and regulated the menses. It is the best kind of medicine that I have ever taken, for it relieved the pain so quickly and cured the disease.—Mrs. LILLIAN GARDNER, Box 77, St. Andrews Bay, Fla.

A COUNTESS WEDS A YOUNG STUDENT

STARRETT-TEIZLAFF NUP-
TIALS SOLEMNIZED.

Words Were Spoken By Rev. G. Kaempfein This Morning, And the Happy Couple Leave For Milwaukee—Announcement Will Be A Surprise to Janesville People

Miss Alice Arthur Starrett, and Robert Charles Alted Teizla, were quietly married at the parsonage of St. John's German Lutheran church this morning, Rev. George Kaempfein officiating, and left on the ten o'clock train for Milwaukee.

Young Teizla is a student in Valentine's school, and the son of a Spring Lake, Wis., farmer. He has been doing chores for his board at the home of Richard Valentine.

The wedding, apparently, was a secret one. Young Teizla called on Mr. Valentine at the school this morning, and told him he was going to Milwaukee on the ten o'clock train, but would be back Monday. He said nothing about being married, but the ceremony had been performed but a few moments before, and his bride was then waiting for him, and they were to go direct to the train.

Romance in Real Life.

Miss Starrett's claim to the title of countess is a valid one, and the story is of interest. Years ago, Count Ferslew of Denmark, came to America to take part, it is said, in the civil war. While in America, the story as told by a friend goes, he became acquainted with Miss Martha Doe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Doe, Sr. He fell in love with Miss Doe, and they were married. Some time afterward, they parted, the count returning to Denmark, and his wife—Mrs. M. W. Ferslew—remaining in America. To them one child was born—a daughter, the mother of Miss Starrett. This daughter met Captain Starrett, and they were married, the wedding, it is reported, being something in the nature of an elopement. To them a daughter was also born—the bride of today.

When Count Ferslew died, his title, etc., reverted to the granddaughter—Miss Starrett—and by way of acknowledgment, she was received in court. She had all the advantages that a young woman could receive.

Has Fine Education

She was sent to the famous convent at Le Mars, France, where she was taught all the arts—painting, music, embroidery, etc., as well as all the languages—five of which she speaks fluently. Some months ago she came to America, and later to Janesville, and has been making her home with her grandmother, Mrs. Ferslew, and great grandmother, Mrs. Doe, on South Main street.

Some days ago she was forbidden to keep company with another telegraph student named Davidson. Angered at the restraint, the girl announced that she had taken poison. The family physician was sent for, and when he came the girl weakened, and admitted that she had only taken talcum powder, and not poison. Davidson was not the young man she loved, it would appear, however, for the man she married today was quite another person.

The groom of today has been attending the Valentine school for some time past.

A Worthy Young Man.

He is a son of a well known farmer living near Spring Grove. For some time past he has been doing chores for Richard Valentine in exchange for his board. As Mr. Valentine lives near the Doe home, young Teizla became acquainted with Miss Starrett. They became close friends and were much in each others company although the announcement of their wedding will doubtless be a surprise to their friends. Young Teizla is said to be a most worthy young man. He is hardworking and reliable, it is said, and comes from an excellent family.

Teizla left no word, so far as learned as to when he and his wife would return from their wedding trip. Teizla is twenty four years of age, while his wife is his junior by some years.

The relatives of the bride were much surprised when they learned of the wedding through The Gazette at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

THEY TALK OF A CHANGE

Important Move Regarding the Furniture Business Under Discussion.

An important move as regards the furniture business of the city, is under consideration among local business men. The plan contemplates the organization of a company to manufacture medium priced chamber suites, for which there is a very heavy demand, and which a Janesville concern, under the right management, would be in shape to manufacture at a substantial profit. The Hanson Furniture company and the Hall Furniture company interests are represented in the matter.

W. S. Fiffeld and C. W. Billings Figuring on a Deal.

Negotiations are now pending for the sale of the W. S. Fiffeld bookstore on West Milwaukee street, to C. W. Billings, who was of late the secretary and treasurer of the Clark Manufacturing company. An inventory is now being taken.

CARGILL ELEVATOR IS BUSY

New Dump Scale Has Been Ordered to Aid in Receiving Grain

The Cargill elevator is running and grain is being received and handled. The effect on the local market is strikingly apparent. The demand for oats and barley has grown. In spite of the fact that the market broke abruptly in Chicago last week and has not recovered.

Charles Quackenbush of Green Bay, superintendent of the Cargill elevators went away last evening after spending a day or two studying the Janesville situation. Preparations have been made to handle large quantities of grain here. An important move is the purchase of a dump scale of the most improved pattern. This is on the way and experts are in readiness for telegraph instructions to put it in place. F. J. McGuire, who represents Cargill & Co. in this city, is on the lookout for grains of all kinds and is making interesting prices.

WILL STOP THE CARS AT TEN TONIGHT.

LINE IS NOT PAYING ITS EXPENSES.

Operating At a Loss of Ten Dollars a Day Does Not Suit Owner Blabon, and the Order To Shut Down Was Expected At Any Time.

Janesville's Electric Street railway has but a few more hours to run. It is the intention of the management to close down at 10 o'clock tonight for the balance of the winter. The order was expected from Owner George W. Blabon of Philadelphia, at any time. Failure on the part of the citizens to patronize the road sufficient to cover the daily running expenses is given as the cause, the company claiming that of late they have been losing on an average of $10 a day.

Supt. Cummings says that the only time the cars have paid was during the summer season when the Sunday business was heavy. During the months of October and November, the daily receipts have told an entirely different story. Not a car on the line during these two months has paid running expenses. The total daily receipts have been $14 against $24 running expenses. Hence the decision to shut down.

PLANING MILL SOLD TO D. K. JEFFRIS

IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED ON THE RACE WAY.

New Lumber Yard Will Be Opened and Dry Kiln Built—Office to Be Erected Also—Pile Driving Will Begin As Soon As Ice Forms.

David K. Jeffris has bought the Janesville Planing mill on North River street, of Ogden H. Fethers and M. G. Jeffris, and also a majority of the water lots on the north side of this building not owned by the Janesville Cotton company.

These purchases mean the starting up at once of a planing mill that will be second to none in the state, and giving employment to many hands. It will also mean the establishment of another retail lumber yard for this city.

During the past few days, Mr. Jeffris, since his return from the northern pineries, has been negotiating for the sale of the mill as well as the purchase of these lots. At 7 o'clock this morning ground was broken on the east side of the mill for the erection of a new and modern dry kiln. This new building will be two stories high, its dimensions being 12x18 feet and will join the mill proper.

The Other Plans.

On the south side of the mill is a vacant space in the rear of the Tulsos & Peterson store will soon be erected a modern office, one story high and built of brick. Its dimensions will be 22x33 feet and its interior finishings will be of oak. In this office will be transacted all the business done by the Jeffris saw mills in the northern part of the state. As soon as the race freezes a pile driver will be put to work and every water lot purchased by Mr. Jeffris will be dotted with piles. Then a gang of carpenters will take hold and stringers will be laid for the surface of what will afterwards be the lumber yard. The railroad track of the St. Paul company which crosses and lines this property is well placed for the loading and unloading of lumber.

The work at the mill will commence as soon as the dry kiln is completed.

LOCATE AT DAYTON

The American Electric Vehicle Company to Engage in Business at That Place.

The American Electric Vehicle company, the concern that wanted to locate in Janesville but failed to place its stock will go to Dayton, Ohio, a sufficient amount of stock having been subscribed to guarantee the enterprise. A dispatch says the company will devote its entire time to the manufacture of horseless carriages and expects to maintain the largest factory of this kind in the world. Plans for factory buildings, etc., have not yet been completed. It is thought that ultimately nearly $1,000,000 will be involved and that the enterprise may eclipse any now in existence there. Dayton bankers and manufacturers are interested.

STATE LUMBER MEN MET HERE TODAY

PLAN A MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY.

Delegates Present Are Unanimous In Favoring the Plan and Will Make a Recommendation Accordingly—Rates Are High, and They Think They Hold the Remedy.

Preliminary steps were taken in this city today, for the forming of an insurance company attached to the Wisconsin Lumber Dealers' Retail association.

At the Hotel Myers this afternoon, a committee consisting of William Doud, Stoughton; J. D. Whittier, Edgerton; J. Wilcox, Fort Atkinson; W. S. Heddles, Edgerton; E. H. Gerard, Stoughton; F. C. Gibbons, Sun Prairie; and several of the local dealers, met for the purpose of taking some steps for the formation of such a company.

The object is to get a lower rate of insurance than is now offered by the companies.

All of the members with the exception of Mr. Heddles are members of the Wisconsin Lumber Dealers' Retail Association. They are unanimous for the formation of an insurance company. Their report will be made out and presented at the next annual meeting of the association to be held next March. A prominent local retail dealer said this morning that the rates they are now obliged to pay are rather high. The prices they pay will average about $1.50 on $1,000 each year, but of course this largely depends on the location of the yard and its surroundings.

THE ARROW AND THE SONG.

I shot an arrow into the air
It fell to earth, I knew not where.
For, so swiftly it flew, the sight
Could not follow it in its flight.

I breathed a song into the air,
It fell to earth, I knew not where,
For who has sight so keen and strong
That it can follow the flight of song?

Long, long afterward in an oak
I found the arrow still unbroke,
And the song, from many a land,
I found again in the heart of a friend.

—Henry W. Longfellow.

A BROTHER'S KEEPER

When a man who is yet young arrives at the conclusion that life holds nothing more for him and that he can only devote himself to the good of others, there is plenty of keen wretchedness in store for him. If he gets up after a bad blow and is actively miserable and somewhat hateful and resentful, he can yet be happy. But self immolation is not natural, and anything unnatural brings its own punishment. Another person and other people cannot be the center of the universe for very long. There may come a jar that will put you out of plumb for a bit, but you swing back to your normal position.

The jar that came to Osborne was a hard one. The girl to whom he was engaged told him that her parents were forcing her to marry a certain rich man. Now parents in these days do not force one to marry anybody, but Osborne would have believed whatever the girl had chosen to tell him. He believed this and thought she was a beautiful, suffering martyr, and there was a tragic scene, which she did cleverly, and a parting. After that Osborne lost even ambition, which had been a ruling passion almost above his love. The girl was mean enough, too, to keep his misery alive by writing to him now and then bewailing her gilded captivity.

Life, he told himself, was henceforth a vain thing, only fit to be used in the service of others. It is not easy to serve others picturesquely in the army. There are no needy and no fallen ones, because when they fall they cease to be in the army. So Osborne bethought him of his brother Alexander.

Alexander lived on a ranch, as Osborne had done. He was 17 years old. At 16 Osborne had been the support of a widowed mother and two children. He had had no boyhood in particular. It had all been work making the ranch pay. Only those who have tried it know what that means. Alexander was not afflicted after this fashion. He lived on his new stepfather and was envious of his brother.

Now, when Osborne brought Alexander on to San Antonio the first evening of his arrival he spoke to him thus: "There's a first class school right in the town, Alex." [Silence.] "I want you to study hard, youngster, to make up for the time you've lost up there in the wilderness."

Alex braced his feet against the porch railing and tipped back his chair. "It strikes me I've lost more fun than about anything else. It ain't fair, Herbert. You've been having a picnic for the last eight years, while I've been slaving in the fields, and I don't see it in the light of settling down right away to digging at books. I want a swing."

If a nature is ambitious, it cannot be altered. The ambition may transfer its object from self to some one else, but it will not die. Osborne's had transferred itself to his brother. So his heart sank. But he had learned toleration. "Well, I'll give you three months, but you must study to make up for it."

"Three months nothing! What's the matter with six?"

"A good deal is the matter. You'll be nearly 18 in six months, and you don't know as much as the average boy of 14. Of course I'm not blaming you for that. You haven't had a fair chance." Osborne forgot that at 18 he himself had passed the competitive examination.

"I guess I haven't—at that or anything else."

Young Osborne had gone barefoot all his life and had never had a whole new suit of clothes to his back or a dime to call his own. Osborne gave him dancing pumps and various seemly suits and a reasonable allowance.

But he thought the allowance small. "Say, Herbert, I can't make out with that measly ten. Make it 15, will you?" he complained.

"No," said Osborne.

Osborne's "noes" were always definite, but Alexander persisted. "Why not? You've a lot more than you need."

"I know best about that. Ten dollars is enough, and it's all I can give you. I've your education to pay for, recollect. You've no expenses outside of an occasional theater ticket and tennis ball—or you shouldn't have."

"You always did catch all the plums," said Alexander.

Then the mail orderly gave Osborne a letter from the girl. Osborne locked himself in his workroom and read it and believed every word of it. And living—even for others—seemed a hard thing for the next few days.

Alexander felt his oats promptly. He excelled at baseball, he learned tennis and dancing by magic and he rode well. Osborne had never been so popular. He had served the Mammon of ambition exclusively until he had transferred his allegiance to the god of love. Since then he had been a martyr—and martyrs are more pleasing in stained glass than in life. And now he returned to the first cult, and ambition filled him. He rejoiced in his brother's beauty, which was of the Bertie Cecil type, in his magnificent stature, in his agility and his athletics. He mounted him on the finest horse to be had in that part of the country—and wore a shabby uniform himself all winter. He read with him for two hours daily and was well pleased when the boy remembered just enough to give his conversation a peculiarly brilliant turn. He argued great things from this when Alexander went to school. But when he went to school Osborne saw the truth.

"Alex, the account of you is very bad. You've barely scratched through on two things, and you've failed on mathematics altogether. I've told you that mathematics is the test at the Point," Osborne admonished.

"Oh, come, I say, let up, Herbert. I'm trying to learn this piece." He picked up with beautiful absorption at the guitar the lieutenant had given him.

"Put up that thing and listen to me." Alexander obeyed, as all men did when Osborne willed.

"I am going to get you into West Point at 20. When I say I am going to do it, you know it is going to be done. Don't you? None of it depends on you except the study. I can't make you drink, but I'll take you to water and keep you there until you find it will be easier to drink. You can go back to the ranch if you like, but I'm not afraid you'll like it. I don't want to treat you as a small boy unless you act the part of one. You can learn and you must learn or the theaters will stop, and the hops will stop, and the guitar will stop—also the tennis. You have been cutting time, but henceforth you will study four hours a day and I will sit with you to help you and see that it is done."

So four hours out of every 24 Osborne put to the use of teaching one who did not wish to learn. Density can be bored through with patience. It is the india rubber of indifference cleverness that resists. After some of the struggles Osborne would lie awake for the rest of the night from sheer nervousness. The boy slept with unruffled brain. The lieutenant almost came to forget the girl, but never quite. A letter would come when Alexander was most inert, and Osborne would stare straight in front of him and grit his teeth and wonder that a man could live with both sides of his nature thwarted and put back. But he had his reward. Alexander went into the academy at 20. He was the handsomest and most popular cadet in his class—and he failed in the first year.

Just how such things are done no one is ever quite sure, but in Osborne's case it must have been sheer force of determination. Alexander was reappointed, and he himself was made instructor at the Point.

He stood over the cadet with the stinging lash of his ambition, and Alexander was graduated. Osborne unwisely took some credit to himself.

"Nonsense!" said Alexander. "I'd have done it alone. The first miss was only bad luck. Don't think it's your circus."

"It doesn't make any great difference to me whose circus it is so that you come out all right. I'm only glad you're getting some ambition."

"Ambition be hanged! It's the one word in your lexicon. I'm sick of the sound of it. It is the sin by which the angels fell. Look out you don't fall, angel brother."

"I'm not likely to fall, but I should not mind it if it put you on a mountain height."

"No heights for me. I can't breathe rare air," answered the younger.

Now in the course of army events it came to pass that a strange fate made Alexander Osborne second lieutenant in the troop of which his brother was first lieutenant, and the first lieutenant continued his ambitious goading. Alexander was independent at present and resisted to some purpose. He would not spend his nights in study and his days in wire pulling. The war department did not reward that sort of thing, he said. It was action it approved. Wait until his time for action came. Then he would satisfy his brother.

And the time for action did come, but the action was disappointing. They marched 200 miles and then marched back again. Alexander complained loudly that he had had no occasion to display his prowess in battle.

He should have been quite safe in this, for that evening they would be once more in Grant. But the Indian host is not to be reckoned with. At sunset, within ten miles of the post, the Apaches caught the battalion in a ravine and kept it there until well into the night.

The moon came up and showed to the bucks hiding behind the cedars and scrub oaks on the rise the soldiers perched in the gully below them. It was merely for the latter a question of holding out and having a few men killed. The danger was not great unless the Apaches should be re-enforced or the couriers should not reach the fort. So the men took shelter behind bushes and rocks and fired at the flashes of light in the darkness above them. The officers walked about in the deep shadows, firing, too, and giving orders.

First Lieutenant Osborne was with his sergeant and another lieutenant when he came upon Second Lieutenant Osborne crouched down between two rocks, his arms clasped over his bent head and his carbine dropped on the ground beside him.

There was no mistake to be made. The other lieutenant hesitated, the sergeant drew back, but Osborne went up and touched his brother with his foot.

"Lieutenant Osborne," he said to the junior, "go and report to the officer in command, Captain Clarke. I shall have preceded you and have reported you for cowardice."

He went in search of the captain and made his report, and Second Lieutenant Osborne was sent under arrest back to the dismounted horses in the rear. Then the first lieutenant threw open his blouse and covered his breast with a wide, white silk handkerchief that gleamed even in the shadow and walked out into the full moonlight.

It was a matter of only a moment before the hidden Apaches saw him with the white target on his bosom, and two of them at least took aim at the target and hit it full in the center, and First Lieutenant Osborne pitched forward on the stones.—Gwendolen Overton in San Francisco Argonaut.

Good Printing...

Is like good painting—it demands and obtains a second glance. The second glance leads to thought about and knowledge of the thing portrayed, and then on to the artist or advertiser.

The kind of printing as well as the kind of painting that it pays to do and to have done is that which obtains this "second glance." Plenty of the other kind!

We are PRINTERS. Our work obtains glances of admiration, and thus leads on to the end desired. We don't do the "other kind." Put our job room to the test.

THE PRIDE OF TEXAS.

A Handsome Young Woman Shoots Well and Plays the Violin Skillfully.

The most interesting young woman in Texas, Miss Plateau, lives in Dallas. She is the first woman in the state to win a championship for wing shooting. She shoots from a trap and goes on long hunting trips, with a brother for her only companion. Her usual weapons are a 12 gauge shotgun and a 32 Winchester rifle. In addition to her sportsmanship Miss Plateau plays the violin with professional skill. Incidentally she is a remarkably handsome young woman and the pride of Texas.—St. Louis Republic.

The Anne Parish Club.

It is said that Anne Parish, a Quaker spinster, born in 1760, founded the first woman's club in Philadelphia 103 years ago. The Federation of Clubs has been immortalizing Hannah Adams and hailing her as the pioneer clubwoman, but this story of Anne Parish will somewhat interfere with the Hannah Adams theory. The Anne Parish club was composed of 23 young women of excellent families, and they devoted themselves to philanthropic work. They met every week and devised plans for relieving the sufferings and necessities of the poor and afflicted. The granddaughters and great-granddaughters of the members of the original society still carry on the work. Passing down through the oldest daughter, the present officers of the club are two "clerks," a treasurer and an executive committee of 13. The membership supports a home, where nearly 100 old women who are poor and needy go every day and read, sew, knit and darn and are paid for their labor and get wholesome meals as well.

Woman and Church Organizations.

"The time is coming," says The Congregationalist of Boston, "when organizations for women only in the churches will be as exceptional as similar organizations for men only. The American board will have women in its corporate membership and on its prudential committee. They will be found in the executive committees of the other societies. They comprise about two-thirds of the membership of the churches, and they will assume their part in the management of the work of the churches. They will no longer think of confining their administration to the affairs of their own sex, nor will men wish them to do so. We may not all approve of this change which has become so manifest. Some of us may study ways of retarding it. The Congregationalist would not be understood as positively advocating it. It cannot afford space for the controversy that would follow. But if others hasten the inevitable we shall not condemn them."

Some Natty Costumes.

Some natty costume of ladies' cloth designed for slender young women are made of two shades of the material, the fronts of the blouse trimmed with cloth straps completely covered with rows of handsome braid or silk cord applique. The arrangement of braided or machine stitched straps and tabs of the dress material is greatly varied this season. Some show lines that run horizontally across the waist front, others simulate a Norfolk jacket, and again the bands go round the figure from under the arms, and over the arms from the shoulders are laid similar straps. On gowns just mentioned the darker shades are used for the straps, and the skirt is of one shade opened up each seam on the front and sides, with stitched bands of the other shade inserted.—New York Post.

Women and Clean Streets.

Since Mrs. A. E. Paul was appointed street inspector for the business district of Chicago one of the sweepers was asked how he liked to work under a woman. He answered:

"We like the woman. She does not curse and swear at us. Men foremen drive us around like slaves and call us bad names. We don't like that, so when he goes away to get drunk we loaf on the job. Foreman come back full of whisky and find work not done, he swear loud more. Woman she comes in happy in morning and stay so all day. She say, 'How do?' and other nice things, and then we do good work. She see it and say so. That makes us feel good, and we work more. Woman all right. Woman's Journal

A Pretty French Yoke.

Says a New York Fashion writer: A pretty French yoke, en jabot, is made to fit around the neck like an ordinary yoke, which is also taken in with the shoulder seams. On each side of the collar is a narrow box plait, and this descends and widens to the lower edge of the yoke, which is partly hidden beneath the shirred top of the full waist below. On this yoke the lower edge is left to fall en jabot, and this unconfined portion is edged with ribbon or insertion and narrow lace.

"I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in my family for the past year, and find it the best remedy for colic and diarrhoea that I have ever tried. Its effects are instantaneous and I cheerfully recommended it, especially for cramp colic and diarrhoea. Indeed, we shall try and keep a bottle of it on our medicine shelf as long as we keep house. Indians Listen to Intruders. Washington, Nov. 30.—In a report to the interior department, Agent Wisdom, in charge of the Union Indian agency in Oklahoma, energetically urges the expulsion from the Indian Territory of all intruders. But for these men, he declares, the Indians of the Five Nations would be more reasonable. Clamor for a change in tribal autonomy, he says, has brought unrest and disquietude, resulting in a fixed purpose on the part of many full bloods to emigrate to Mexico.

We show the largest line of Watches in Rock county. Many new movements; the finest in the world added lately. Large display of brilliant Diamonds. A pair of GOLD SPECTACLES a sensible gift. W. F. Hayes, the eye expert, will test the eyes at any time. Every late method known to the modern optical world is used by Mr. Hayes. The greatest of them all—Retmoscopy—has lately been taken up, a special course of instruction having been taken in the East under the most eminent men of the day by Mr. Hayes. No charge for consultation or examination.

Keen Carvers

We take pride in keeping the best line of table cutlery in the city. Carver blades made as knives SHOULD BE, but as department store carvers are not, hand-forged razor steel. Handles in thirty attractive patterns.

Stove and Furnace work have kept us busy this month. Favorite Base Burners and Hermetic Favorites, their milled dampers and air tight joints, sell on sight.
